The Gewillikin!

Solid and figured worsted, calico, domestics, casimeres, satinetts, janes, tweeds, plaid linseys and flannels, selling at Ward and Shapard's at low pressure prices. 20

Dr. McCarty, an eminent dentist and esteemed permanent resident of Pulaski, is before the public in a new card to-day.

Mrs. Adams' School.—Mrs. Adams desires us to announce to her patrons that, owing to the inclemency of the weather, the opening of her school has been deferred until the 1st Monday in February, at which time it will open promptly. 21

The Gewillikin!

More good shoes for men, women, boys, girls, children and babies, to be found at Ward & Shapard's, at rates to compare with the low price of cotton. dec 20

J. R. Osborn is the agent for this county for the branch office of the National Horse Insurance Company, Nashville, Tenn.

Call on him at the Book Store and have your stock insured. 11

The Gewillikin!

Hoops, doll babies, coffee mills, sugar, ribbons, coffee, and shawls to keep you warm at Ward & Shapard's. dec 20

Dr. Grant & Abernathy, as will be seen by announcement to-day, have dissolved partnership. Dr. Grant, in another place, tenders his invaluable services to the public and announces that he occupies the old office of Grant & Abernathy.

The Gewillikin!

Did you ever see the like? If Ward & Shapard haven't gone and filled their Big Store house plump full of new goods! 20

Crad Flippin, at the "Ben Johnson Saloon," has placed us under obligations for a bottle of what he designates as "the Grand Old Cyclopedia of Robertson." It is finer than split silk and runs down like a shot. Crad says the Grand Cyclopedia is the highest officer known in Robertson.

The Gewillikin!

Ward & Shapard's is the place to spend money and get cheap goods. dec 20

ACCIDENT ON THE NASHVILLE AND DECATUR RAILROAD.—The passenger train on the Nashville and Decatur Railroad due here on Friday at 10 o'clock, was thrown from the track by the breaking of a wheel near Elmont. One of the coaches turned over on its side, and the sleeping car rolled down the bank which is, at this point, very considerable. We regret to learn that our gentlemanly friend R. Pitts Brown, train conductor, and the sleeping car conductor were both injured slightly. Several of the passengers were bruised slightly, but none seriously hurt. Fortunately the train, at the time, was running at a low rate of speed.

NASHVILLE AND DECATUR RAILROAD.—The new time table took effect on this road Monday last. Under the new arrangement, the morning passenger train leaves Nashville at 7:40 A. M.; arrives in Decatur at 4:30 P. M. Evening passenger train leaves Nashville at 7:30 P. M.; arrives at Decatur at 2:30 A. M. Passenger trains leave Decatur at 6:30 A. M.; arrives at Nashville at 3:30 P. M. Night passenger trains leave at 11:43; arrive at Nashville at 5:35 A. M.

Ben Johnson Club.

This dramatic company favored us with another brilliant entertainment Wednesday night last. The bill for the evening was a repetition of the musical extravaganza, Pocahontas, and the extremely laughable farce, "Lend Me Five Shillings." In the first piece, the gentleman of the Dramatic Perspect, exceeded our most extravagant calculations of their ability, while in the latter ROW TAYLOR, as Mr. Golightly, exhibited a dramatic ability unsurpassed by that of any one ever brought upon these boards.

A correct rendering of the different characters in both plays, together with a large and appreciative audience, signalized the performance as a brilliant success. Peculiarly they are now independent.

They will not give another entertainment until they occupy the Ben Johnson Hall, in Mr. May's new building, which will not be completed in several weeks, when the public may anticipate a rich dramatic feast.

By reference to the advertising columns of the Citizen to-day it will be seen that the great want of a good Male School in Pulaski is to be supplied on the 20th inst. by Prof. I. P. Osborn. This gentleman's character as an instructor is already established. Those who may have boys to educate may safely entrust them to the charge of Mr. Osborn.

The country pays more for alcoholic drinks than for its colleges and schools.

Unfortunate Affray.

A very unfortunate and rather serious collision occurred here on the evening of the 7th inst., between some white and black men, in which one of the former and several of the latter were wounded. The difficulty originated in a quarrel between Mr. Calvin Lambeth, a merchant of this place, and a negro by the name of Calvin Carter. Last summer this negro went into Mr. L's store, and from some cause a difficulty occurred, and in pursuance of the right every man has of protecting his premises, thought proper to expel him from the house with a kick. Ever since this occurrence, the negro and several of his friends have been openly making serious threats against Mr. L., and on the night before this occurrence, grossly insulted and threatened him on the street, whereupon Mr. L. sought to chastise his insulter, but he fled. Again on the morning of the affray, he menaced Mr. L. in front of his own door, and when Mr. L. would have chastised him again, fled. Finally, during the day, a large crowd of negroes congregated at a negro drinking saloon immediately opposite the house of Mr. L. They were drinking and carousing and making many threatening demonstrations and remarks, intended for Mr. L.; he, (Mr. L.), happening to pass by the grocery, was met by a negro making threatening demonstrations towards him, which he resented and demanded explanations—a quarrel ensued, in which a pistol was drawn upon Mr. L., and snapped at him—whereupon he drew his pistol and fired at the negro who ran into the house, Mr. L. following. Another negro then appeared and fired upon Lambeth. Mr. L., who had stepped out upon the street, returned the fire. Several of Mr. Lambeth's friends, seeing him in a difficulty, ran to his assistance, and many other negroes appeared upon the opposite side. The negroes again made the attack by firing at Lambeth, whereupon he and two or three friends returned the fire. The negroes retreated into the grocery and the whites ceased firing; but the negroes in a few moments re-appeared, having been reinforced by Orange Rodes and others, and made another attack—Orange snapping a pistol at the whites. The whites returned the fire, some more of Lambeth's friends having come to his assistance, whereupon a number of shots were fired from each side, but the negroes being much worsted, retreated in bad order, and there was no more fighting.

There were six negroes wounded—two seriously—one of whom, Orange Rodes, has since died. Another is very badly shot, the rest are slightly wounded. One white man received a small shot in one of his fingers—a very slight injury. This was the extent of the casualties.

We have given the above facts as we received them from what we consider good authority—from persons who were upon the ground and saw the transaction. The whole matter is being investigated by a Committee Court, to-day, but the result of this investigation, or the facts proven, we are not able to procure before going to press.

From all the facts and circumstances we are satisfied that this difficulty was sought and desired by the blacks, so far as the attack upon Mr. Lambeth is concerned, and that they were organized and prepared for, and had assembled at this grocery for that purpose. Some circumstances to prove it are that the negroes, about twenty-five in number, were well armed—most of them there at the beginning, the others appearing as soon as the affray began, and all showed a disposition to prosecute it to the bitter end. On the other hand, there seemed to be no concert of action on the part of Lambeth's friends, as Lambeth was entirely alone when the difficulty began, and it was some time before his friends appeared, and many of them came entirely unarmed, and ran for their arms afterwards. There were only six or seven of them altogether.

We were pleased to hear that many of our old citizens, were upon the ground, and exposing themselves to great danger, in their efforts to suppress and quell the disturbance, among whom we may mention Maj. Thos. M. Jones, Maj. Amos R. Richardson, Mayor Ballentine, Maj. Aymett, chief of Police, Mr. Malone, and Sheriff Peden, the latter of whom promptly arrested the whole party of whites and all the blacks that could be identified.

We are sorry indeed to chronicle this affair, and sorry that such a thing should have occurred in our community; but hope that it has resulted in some good and taught a lesson which will prevent a repetition of such a scene. We hope that the negroes will learn the lesson: that it is to their interest to cultivate amicable relations with the whites of this country, and when one of their color has difficulty with a white man, be he right or wrong, that they are not justifiable in banding themselves together to defend him vi et armis.

Many fears were entertained of a renewal of this difficulty, as the negroes had made some threats, but our energetic city authorities promptly organized a special police, which has been on duty since, and we hope there is no danger of further trouble.

LATER.—Since the foregoing was put in type, the parties arrested have been bound over in bonds of $1000 each, to appear at the next term of the Circuit Court. Fourteen white men were arrested, two of whom proved an alibi, the others, waiving an examination. Eight negroes were arrested, two of whom were discharged, two bound over, three not able to appear, and one was reported dead.

Queer thing is an insurance policy. If I can't sell it, I can o-o it; and if I can o-o it, I can't sell it.

COL. DUNKINOTON.—We have had the pleasure of greeting in our office the distinguished young officer, late of the "so-called," whose name heads this paragraph.—The Col., a brother, by the way, of our distinguished friend, F. C., late of the Nashville Union, was formerly an officer in the old U. S. Navy, but, like a true Southerner, resigned his commission at the commencement of the late war, and linked his fate with that of his native South. He served awhile in the army, but was afterwards transferred to the navy, and was Commander of the ill-fated Virginia at the time of her capture. He afterwards served with Admiral Semmes, and at one time was sent to Europe as agent of the government. He is sojourning among us temporarily, and we commend him to the confidence and friendship of our people.

Radical Convention.

The blacks and a few white folks of this county met in convention at the colored church in this place last Monday, for the purpose of nominating candidates to fill the various offices of the county. We understand that there was very little harmony among the members of the convention, and that the nominations made were not endorsed by a large portion of the Leaguers. We care not to throw away the space that would be occupied by the names of the nominees.

DIED.—At Moulton, Ala., on Sunday the 29th day of December, 1867, Col. JOHN H. HANSELL, a near and dear relative of the editors of this paper, a patriot and useful citizen, a kind and devoted husband and father, a sincere and faithful friend, and a true Mason.

He was a man of influence and the highest respectability, and no man dare say that he ever departed from the path of honesty and strict integrity. He was a prominent lawyer in his locality and his death is mourned by the whole profession as well as by a devoted wife and interesting family and a large circle of friends.
